

NEWS BRIEFS

Day's wrap: Christian Louboutin, Aston Martin, Marie Claire, Land Rover and fashion sales

December 9, 2019

Anne Fulenwider's time at Marie Claire is coming to an end. Image credit: Marie Claire

By STAFF REPORTS

Luxury Daily's live news from Dec. 9:

Aston Martin Lagonda takes to the air with Airbus chopper design partnership

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Aston Martin Lagonda will soon incorporate its design aesthetic in Airbus helicopters.

Click here to read the entire article

Smartphones drive half of online fashion sales and 67pc of traffic this holiday season: study

Seasonal fashion shoppers on smartphones, however, are harder to convince than those on desktop, spending less per order, seemingly more impatient and less likely to make a purchase.

Click here to read the entire article

Hearst Magazines names Aya Kanai next editor in chief of Marie Claire

Women's fashion magazine Marie Claire will soon be under new leadership, as editor in chief Anne Fulenwider steps down at the end of the year.

Click here to read the entire article

Christian Louboutin enters China's cosmetics market via Tmall

Christian Louboutin Beauty has entered the Chinese market with a flagship store on Tmall as it targets a fast-growing market for cosmetics and beauty products.

Click here to read the entire article

Land Rover breaks winter ad campaign targeting US skiers and snowboarders

Targeting rugged outdoor-types, Land Rover North America has launched its new brand and product advertising campaign targeting skiers and snowboarders as part of its sponsorship deal with U.S. Ski & Snowboard.

Click here to read the entire article

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.