

NEWS BRIEFS

Elsewhere: Zegna, Facebook, museums and Chinese-owned luxury brands

December 16, 2019

He loves me, he loves me not: Oscar-winning actor Mahershala Ali ponders the notion of masculinity in Zegna's latest installment of the #WhatMakesAMan campaign. Image credit: Zegna

By STAFF REPORTS

Elsewhere in luxury:

Gildo Zegna: tailoring masculinity for changing tastes

The head of the menswear brand says family ties provide stability in difficult times

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Please click here to read the entire article on FT.com

Facebook won't change Web tracking in response to California privacy law

Google plans changes, but Facebook contends sites aren't selling user data they collect and share.

Please click here to read the entire article on WSJ.com

How the superrich took over the museum world

The wealthy have always influenced the art scene. But in recent years, they've dominated it.

Please click here to read the entire article on nytimes.com

Chinese-owned luxury brands struggle as rest of industry prospers

While the broader industry prospers, the handful of luxury brands with Chinese parent companies is facing greater uncertainty.

Please click here to read the entire article on theepochtimes.com
