

NEWS BRIEFS

Elsewhere: Emanuel Ungaro dies, uniform dressing, sustainable Christmas and Portland goes affluent

December 23, 2019

French fashion designer Emanuel Ungaro has died at 86

By STAFF REPORTS

News from elsewhere (some of these sites are paid subscription):

Emanuel Ungaro, a designer of "fantasy," dies at 86

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

The designer had retired in 2004.

Please click here to read the entire article on WWD.com

Is "uniform dressing" turning men into clones?

Fashion brands now hawk coordinating sets of basics for men who are busy, unimaginative or both. For some, these looks are a no-brainer solution, but others find them uniformly dull.

Please click here to read the entire article on WSJ.com

The people bringing us a sustainable Christmas

The rise in conscious consumerism is creating a market for new ideas such as rented trees

Please click here to read the entire article on FT.com

Once a hipster haven, Portland is welcoming a more affluent crowd in a luxury hotel and fine dining boom

After years of food and travel magazines screaming about Portland's cool factor, the city has settled into its fame and built up a tourism infrastructure to support it.

Please click here to read the entire article on Fortune.com

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.