

NEWS BRIEFS

Louis Vuitton, Aston Martin, Vogue Italia and Selfridges Live news

January 6, 2020

Paolo Ventura illustrated one of the Vogue Italia's January 2020 covers. Image credit: Vogue Italia

By STAFF REPORTS

Luxury Daily's live news from Jan. 3:

Louis Vuitton reducing retail presence in Hong Kong

French fashion label Louis Vuitton is shuttering one of its Hong Kong outposts, making it the first luxury retail casualty of prolonged protests in the region.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Click here to read the entire article

ACH130 Aston Martin Edition helicopter with Airbus targets owner-flown market

British sports carmaker Aston Martin Lagonda has unveiled the first product of its new partnership with Airbus Corporate Helicopters as both brands target a market for affluent consumers who prefer to fly their own choppers.

Click here to read the entire article

Vogue Italia illustrates environmental impact of fashion magazines

Cond Nast's Vogue Italia is highlighting the environmental impact of high-fashion editorials by opting for illustrations instead of photo shoots for its January issue.

Click here to read the entire article

Selfridges, Highsnobiety collaborate on streetwear concept

British department store chain Selfridges and streetwear platform Highsnobiety are teaming for a series of collaborations and curated product drops through a new retail concept.

Click here to read the entire article
