

NEWS BRIEFS

Day's wrap: Hublot, Kobe Bryant, Tiffany, Four Seasons, Gucci and Bentley

January 27, 2020

What goes into the blue box: Tiffany is asserting leadership in diamond traceability. Image credit: Tiffany & Co.

By STAFF REPORTS

Luxury Daily's live news:

Hublot condoles death of brand ambassador Kobe Bryant

LVMH-owned Swiss watch brand Hublot put out a statement on Twitter mourning the passing yesterday of basketball legend Kobe Bryant.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Please click here to read the entire article

Tiffany re-emphasizes role in diamond traceability as market demands transparency, sustainability

Tiffany has released videos and statements over the course of a year, with a more recent effort to re-emphasize how it is not just pioneering responsible sourcing or simply adhering to industry standards, but also leading by example.

Please click here to read the entire article

Four Seasons to double portfolio of private residences by 2025

The Toronto-based company said more than 90 percent of all development projects will have a residential component.

Please click here to read the entire article

Gucci names 16 nonprofits as beneficiaries to its North America Changemakers Impact Fund

The nonprofits across 11 cities in the United States and one in Canada will collectively receive $1 million for a year.

Please click here to read the entire article

Bentley Motors to hire 76 staff at UK headquarters to support digital transformation process

Britain's Bentley Motors is looking to future-proof its workforce for the 21st century with the planned intake of trainees who are fluent in key automotive roles but with primary skills rooted in digital and technology expertise.

Please click here to read the entire article

Please click here to read the morning newsletter: We are in the middle of experience wars

---

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.