

APPAREL AND ACCESSORIES

Hannah Coleman is new CEO of Jimmy Choo

September 2, 2020

Hannah Colman is CEO of Jimmy Choo

---

By LUXURY DAILY NEWS SERVICE

From store manager to CEO took Hannah Colman 24 years at Jimmy Choo.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Ms. Colman was named boss of the famed U.K. footwear brand after serving most recently as interim CEO and before that president for Jimmy Choo's Europe Middle East and Africa operations and global ecommerce. She will report to John D. Idol, chairman/CEO of Jimmy Choo parent Capri Holdings.

"Hannah has been instrumental in Jimmy Choo's growth with her instinctive vision for the brand," Mr Idol said in a statement. "She has done an outstanding job leading the business during a highly challenging and unprecedented time. I have every faith that she will continue to lead Jimmy Choo to even greater heights.

"Our company has an excellent team in place and I am confident that under Hannah's leadership the brand will continue to go from strength to strength," he said.

Footwear maker Jimmy Choo is part of Capri Holdings, along with Michael Kors and Versace. Image courtesy of Capri Holdings

Next step

Ms. Colman will be based in Jimmy Choo's London headquarters. She got her start with the brand in 1996 at its first boutique on Motcomb Street in London.

Jimmy Choo is part of Capri Holdings, which also includes Michael Kors and Versace.

Sandra Choi, founder and creative director of Jimmy Choo, applauded the promotion.

"Hannah and I have worked together since the start of our fashion luxury house," Ms. Choi said in a statement.

"I couldn't be happier that she will now lead our company as we continue to grow Jimmy Choo as one of the most important British luxury brands in the world," she said. "We share the same vision for the future of this brand that we both love."

---

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.