

NEWS BRIEFS

Day's wrap: Nordstrom, Arnold & Son, Sir Mo Farah and Luxury Institute

October 1, 2020

By LUXURY DAILY NEWS SERVICE

Luxury Daily's live news:

US department store chain Nordstrom debuts BeautyCycle recycling program

First major retailer to offer a recycling program for all brands of hard-to-recycle beauty packaging in partnership with global recycling leader TerraCycle.

Please click here to read the entire article

Swiss watchmaker Arnold & Son taps celebrated British sprinter Sir Mo Farah as ambassador

Swiss watchmaker Arnold & Son has named British athlete Sir Mo Farah as its special ambassador.

Please click here to read the entire article

Up, down or flat: Experts punt on several luxury sectors' year-ahead outlook

While no one can predict the exact trajectory of the pandemic and its short and long-term effects on the economy, history indicates that human resilience and ingenuity, propelled by the drive to not just survive, but to thrive, usually fuels recovery.

Please click here to read the entire article

Mark Cross embodies future vintage' with sustainable, traceable leather goods

U.S. leather goods house Mark Cross is relaunching its men's collection in the United States with an emphasis on sustainability and supply chain transparency.

Please click here to read the entire article

China offers a glimpse of a post-virus luxury market

NEW YORK Chinese consumers have helped buoy luxury brands as many face months of falling sales due to the coronavirus pandemic and global lockdowns.

Please click here to read the entire article

Please click here to read the morning newsletter
