

NEWS BRIEFS

Day's wrap: Armani, Bentley, De Beers Group and Wheels Up

November 16, 2020

Some pieces in the R-EA capsule collection have the slogan "I'm Saying Yes To Recycling" front and center. Image credit: Emporio Armani

By LUXURY DAILY NEWS SERVICE

Luxury Daily's live news for Nov. 16:

Armani teams with Hypebeast on sustainable, traceable capsule collection

Italian fashion label Armani is the latest to launch a sustainability-minded capsule collection, as traditional luxury houses continue to experiment with recycled materials.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Please click here to read the article

Bentley begins new chapter with driver-friendly Flying Spur V8

British automaker Bentley Motors has begun full production and deliveries of its new Flying Spur V8.

Please click here to read the article

De Beers reorganizes management teams to emphasize sustainability messaging

British diamond group De Beers is restructuring its senior management with a focus on sustainable impact and social purpose.

Please click here to read the article

Wheels Up wants to fly essential workers home for the holidays

Private aviation firm Wheels Up is helping essential workers safely go home for the holidays through a new social media contest amid the continuing coronavirus pandemic.

Please click here to read the article

Fashion brands test the waters of sustainability through capsule collections

A growing number of fashion brands are focusing on sustainability and experimenting with environmentally-friendly capsule collections as social and environmental awareness accelerates during the global pandemic.

Please click here to read the article

Please click here to read the morning newsletter

---

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.