

NEWS BRIEF

Day's wrap: Kering, LVMH, L'Oral, Loewe and The Macallan

September 24, 2021

Kering houses will no longer use animal fur. Image credit: Kering

By LUXURY DAILY NEWS SERVICE

Luxury Daily's live news for Sept. 24:

Kering says farewell to fur

French luxury conglomerate Kering has stopped using animal fur, starting from its fall 2022 collections.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Please click here to read the article

LVMH, L'Oral addressing environmental transparency in beauty industry

French luxury conglomerate LVMH Mot Hennessy Louis Vuitton and French cosmetics group L'Oral are among the organizations that are collaborating on an industry-wide environmental impact assessment for cosmetics products.

Please click here to read the article

Loewe Foundation to celebrate artisans with 2022 Craft Prize

Spanish apparel and accessories house Loewe has opened applications for the fifth edition of its Craft Prize, celebrating creativity and innovation in contemporary craftsmanship.

Please click here to read the article

The Macallan enlists photographer to celebrate new Double Cask

Scottish whisky maker The Macallan has tapped an acclaimed American artist and photographer to capture the unique flavor profile of Double Cask 30 Years Old, its latest addition to the Double Cask range.

Please click here to read the article

Pandemic showed us where we could improve: Hugo Boss COO

The COVID-19 pandemic has forced brands to adapt their retail models, from operations to customer communications and talent retention.

Please click here to read the article

Please click here to read the morning newsletter

© 2021 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.