Mr. Wilmotte will serve as the interim CEO of the brand through Dec. 22, 2022, working closely with Donatella Versace and the leadership team during his time. He brings a wealth of luxury retail experience to Versace, having served as president of the EMEA region for Michael Kors for more than a decade.

"I am thrilled to have Cedric in this role as he has an exceptional breadth of luxury retail expertise," said John D. Idol, chairman and CEO of Capri Holdings, in a statement. "Cedric did an outstanding job leading the Michael Kors brand in EMEA.

"I am confident that under his leadership, Versace will be able to continue to execute on its growth strategy and build upon the brand's incredible momentum."

New leadership

Prior to joining Michael Kors in 2008, Mr. Wilmotte held leadership positions with Marc Jacobs in Paris from 2004 to 2008 and Donna Karan in New York, London and Milan from 1998 to 2004.

In his new role, Mr. Wilmotte will report to Mr. Idol.

Capri Holdings will continue to conduct a search for a permanent replacement for Jonathan Akeroyd, departing CEO of Versace, who will leave the brand on March 31, 2022.

Mr. Akeroyd has been the chief executive officer of Versace since 2016, and previously served as the CEO of Alexander McQueen from 2004 to 2016.

British fashion label Burberry announced Mr. Akeroyd as its new CEO, effective April 1, 2022. Mr. Akeroyd will succeed Marco Gobbetti, current CEO of Burberry, who is exiting the label on Dec. 31 (see story).
