The collaboration includes designs for men, women and children, allowing shoppers to curate a summery style for the whole family. In addition to apparel, the collection includes accessories, eyewear and footwear.

Vacation ready

The focal point of the exclusive collection is Dolce & Gabbana's zebra and red poppy print. The bold graphic adorns several pieces, including tops, hoodies, leggings, swimsuits and bags.

For an effortless aesthetic, the eclectic collection is made with light and airy materials including brocade, poplin, satin and twill. Prices start at $275 for children's zebra and flower print leggings and go up to $2,995 for a women's print blazer.

In a series of editorial images, men, women and children dressed in the exclusive designs pose around Naples in a nod to Dolce's Italian heritage.

For last year's collaboration with Saks, the label took inspiration from another Italian destination.

The "Sunset in Capri" collection was anchored by a lemon motif that appeared on dresses, shirts, shorts and footwear. The citrus theme was complemented by a color palette of sunny yellow, deep ocean blues, crisp white and touches of green (see story).

The Dolce & Gabbana exclusive collection for Saks Fifth Avenue is now available online and in select stores.
