Four Seasons Hotel and Private Residences New Cairo Capital at Madinaty and Four Seasons Hotel Luxor will be added to the group's portfolio, in conjunction with planned renovations for Four Seasons Resort and Private Residences Sharm El Sheikh.

"Egypt is an important destination in Four Seasons history, as it marked our brand's entry into the Middle East 22 years ago," said Bart Carnahan, president, global business development and portfolio management at Four Seasons.

"Our continued expansion illustrates our ongoing commitment to the region, and all that it has to offer for luxury travelers and homeowners."

Egyptian expansion

Four Seasons Hotel and Private Residences New Cairo Capital at Madinaty is expected to open in 2025 on a sizable 460 acres.

The property, surrounded by verdant gardens as far as the eye can see, will feature 346 rooms and suites. The private residences will hold 107 villas and 80 luxury residences.

The property will also have gourmet restaurant and bar options, private pools, rooftop gardens, a standalone spa, fitness facility, tennis courts and more.

Four Seasons Hotel Luxor is also set to open in 2025. Featuring 200 guest rooms and suites, guests will have views of the Nile River, the Valley of the Kings and the Valley of the Queens.

Guests will also have access to several restaurant and bars, a spa, a fitness facility, luxury shopping and more.

Four Seasons Private Residences at Sharm El Sheikh first opened 20 years ago, and is now being enhanced to include new accommodations, restaurants, meeting spaces and more.

The plans include an addition of 69 private residences that will offer luxury seaside living in Egypt on a private beachfront. The new residential offerings will be comprised of 25 villas and 44 chalets.

Four Seasons continues expanding and keeping its eye on new destinations, in more ways than one.
