The company has unveiled a curated selection of luxury handbags chosen with Christie's upcoming "Handbags Online: The New York Edit" online auction in mind. The event, ongoing from May 30 to June 12, will include several highly sought-after and limited-edition handbags from Chanel, Fendi and Louis Vuitton, among others.

"We are thrilled to be partnering with the iconic Christie's auction house to offer an exclusive, unparalleled assortment of rare and highly-coveted handbags," said Charles Gorra, founder and CEO of Rebag, in a statement.

"Collectors will relish the opportunity to secure the most exceptional pieces in our expertly-vetted inventory, particularly rare and limited edition designer styles."

Among the luxury listings is an especially noteworthy inclusion from French fashion and leather goods house Hermès.

Valued between $170,000 and $220,000, the "Hermès Perspective Cavalière Kellywood 22" is considered one of the most valuable luxury handbags in the world. Sporting the label's signature Perspective Cavalière pattern on its front panel, with a body of solid beechwood, the six-color leather kit is incredibly intricate in design and execution.

Christie's online resale event marks the bag's debut appearance at an American auction.

Among the other high-profile holdalls that will be auctioned off are the Herms Matte White Himalaya Niloticus Crocodile Birkin, expected to sell for $90,000 and $120,000, and a pale pink Alligator Chanel Classic Jumbo Double Flap, which features a starting ask of $10,000.

Among others, the "Virgil Abloh Monogram Mirror Louis Vuitton Cotteville 40" is also up for grabs. The unit could fetch anywhere between $7,000 and $10,000 at auction.

Christie's continues to level up its luxury division, having just appointed a new chairman after successfully poaching the former CEO of Sotheby's Asia (see story).
