Scottish whisky maker The Macallan's ongoing anniversary celebration is getting an experiential boost.

The luxury spirits brand is collaborating with Canadian entertainment company Cirque du Soleil to commemorate its 200-year milestone. "Cirque du Soleil Spirit," a special production and bespoke sensory event, will grace The Macallan's Speyside, Scotland estate grounds from May 10-31, 2024.

"2024 marks a momentous year for The Macallan, celebrating our 200 Years Young mark," said Jaume Ferrs, creative director at The Macallan, in a statement.

"This collaboration brings two iconic brands together, both dedicated to constant innovation; resulting in a one-of-a-kind experience which is uniquely inspired by the Highlands and the story of our brand so far."

Contemporary commemoration

The Macallan's theatrical introduction draws inspiration from the whisky maker's craftsmanship, matching Cirque du Soleil's performance chops to the process that creates the distiller's products.

"The creative concept is bringing all the various elements together with the ultimate aim of telling this very powerful story, inspired by the highlands, The Macallan Estate and the River Spey," said Susan Gaudreau, show director at Cirque du Soleil, in a statement.

The showcase "moves guests through different environments of the narrative experience, immersing them in the feelings, scents, tastes and sounds of the bespoke journey," per producers.

Working with the largest contemporary circus producer in the world, the event is staged at The Macallan Estate. The natural landscape serves as the backdrop for "Cirque du Soleil Spirit."

"Through harmony paralleled with nature and storytelling, we've forged a spectacular collaboration that highlights the strengths of both of our brands," said Marie-Hlne Delage, creative director at Cirque du Soleil, in a statement.
